

Chapter 6.

AGRICULTURAL COOPERATION AS A COMPONENT OF THE AGRARIAN REFORM

Mykola Malik, Larysa Malik

Abstract. The world practice of the cooperative movement has been proving high results of its economic and social functions for a century and a half. But creation of cooperatives is possible in society of the proper pre-conditions which carry public, political, legal, economic and psychological character. Taking into account the value of cooperatives in the decision of socio-economic tasks, there is an urgent necessity in development of Program of development of cooperation as parts of governmental agrarian policy in Ukraine.

Keywords: agrarian reform, agriculture cooperation, legislation .